Over the past year, U.S. economists have been saying there are signs of economic recovery starting to arise. However, with increased gas prices and tremendous lay-off's, there are still many people and families struggling to survive in this crisis. As a credit union member, you can rest assured that you're being helped in the best way possible. The picture to the left is a perfect example of what credit unions do for their members. Credit unions shape their financial services for the "little guy" — people from all walks of life. We are here to walk you through these troubling situations. Let The Wright Credit Union be your umbrella to shield you from these stormy times!

The Credit Union will be Closed on:
